The polar bear whose scientific name is Ursus maritimus is the biggest predator in the world. They have a short tail, weigh up to 600kg and mass up to 3m tall. Their fur seems to be white or yellow at first sight, but a closer look reveals them (fur) to be transparent and hollow. The natural habitat of the polar bear is on the northern coasts and the Arctic waters north of Alaska, Norway, Greenland, Canada, and Russia. They have long nails that are designed to help them walk on snow and ice. The polar bear's small ears and tail have a small surface area which helps them to maintain their body warmth. The milk from polar bears is extremely rich in fat and protein making it easier for small cubs to put on weight quickly. Their paws have footpads that are covered by small soft bumps called "papillae" and claws that are short, curved and thick. Polar bears are in serious danger of going extinct at present. In 2008, the polar bear became the first vertebrate species to be listed under the U.S. Endangered Species Act as threatened, due to predicted climate change. In other words, the biggest threat to polar bears is the impacts of global warming.

Read the paragraph and answer the questions given below.

Once there was a very wealthy and a curious king. He had placed a huge boulder in the middle of a road. Then he hid nearby to see if anyone would try to remove the gigantic rock from the road.

The first people to pass by were some of the king's wealthiest merchants and courtiers. Rather than moving it, they simply walked around it. A few , loudly blamed the king for not maintaining the roads. Not one of them tried to move the boulder. Finally, a peasant came along. His arms were full of vegetables. When he got near the boulder, rather than simply walking around it as the others had, the peasant put down his load and tried to move the stone to the side of the road. He did this to be helpful to others. It took a lot of effort but he finally succeeded. The peasant gathered up his load and was ready to go on his way when he saw a purse where the boulder had been. The peasant opened the purse. The purse was stuffed full of gold coins and a note from the king.

In other words, high-volume noises are abnormal. Technology has made things easier for people by creating appliances for almost everything. When you cook, you may use a mixer or a blender. You turn on the AC when it is hot. Also, you watch television or play music. However, all these appliances contribute to noise pollution by disturbing the natural rhythm of life and fall into the category of a pollutant.

ii ☐ Music for healing has a powerful effect on physical and mental health. Studies show that it can reduce stress, improve moods, increase energy levels, decrease pain intensity ratings and even help with cognitive function.

iii ☐ Thus, when the going gets tough, we depend on our friends for solace. Sometimes, it is not possible to share everything with the family, that is where friends come in. We can share everything with them without the fear of being judged.

iv ☐ Too much of it, without striking a balance, can lead to issues like eye strain, sleep disruption if you're a late-night reader, and even social isolation, as it can cut into time that could be spent with others.

v ☐ Doctors recommend that parents read with their children beginning as early as infancy and continuing through elementary school years. Reading with your children builds warm and happy associations with books, can make happy readers in the future.

Read the following text and answer the questions given below.

One day, a young boy named Haroun was walking down the street and saw a group of kids in front of a school, beating up a child of his age and throwing his books on the ground. Haroun immediately intervened and stood up for the child. After the other kids fled, Haroun helped the child up, gathered his books and with a warm smile, asked, "Are you ok?"

The child was fine and after making sure he was right, Haroun asked for his name and address. The child's name was John and surprisingly he lived near Haroun's house. Then Haroun escorted him home. John thanked Haroun profusely for his noble act. Before Haroun left, he took John's number to check on him later.

The next morning, Haroun called John and asked if he wanted to join him and his friends to play. John didn't hesitate, as he didn't have any friends to hang out with, so he agreed. Thus, a strong friendship formed between them. No one bullied John thereafter.

Days and years passed, John and Haroun graduated from the same university. During the graduation ceremony, as the student who won the gold medal for his outstanding performance, John got the opportunity to speak and he said,

"I'd like to thank everyone who supported me on my journey. I thank my family and I'd like to thank the person who gave me life! Because of him, I'm here today. Let me share this story with you."

He looked at Haroun and continued his speech. "Twenty years ago, a group of kids beat me up and threw my books away in the street. I was thinking about quitting the school that day, but my childhood friend, Haroun intervened, defended me and with his gentle smile, he gave me life and hope again. It was not my talents and skills that brought me here but the friendship of Haroun."

1. Say whether the following statements are true or false by writing T or F in the box given in front of each sentence.
